ASHLAND TOWNSHIP

Eli Cox was the first settler who came into Ashland Precinct in 1818. William Crow and William Cooper settled in the precinct soon after Mr. Cox had located. Ashland Precinct was not settled until a later date, the land being mostly prairie, and the first settlers, coming from timbered countries, thought it impossible to locate on the prairie, where there was no timber. James Davis settled on a farm in the southeast part of the county which was later owned by Travis Elmore, at the head of Little Indian Creek. He sold out to Strother Ball, and he to Isaac Bennett. Bennett sold to William Grove, who entered the land in 1826. David R. Short made an effort in 1830, to get away from the timber, and took up a claim where Joshua Atkins resided, but after the first year he became discouraged and sold out his interest to his uncle Samuel Short, who resided then in Sangamon County. William Cooper, a negro with a white wife, settled here also, Stephen Short, with his four sons, James, Benjamin, George and Albert, along with Stephen Lee, Tilman Hornbuckle and Dr. Stockton settled in Panther Grove in 1830. John Miller, James Thompson and Daniel Blair settled near by on the prairie. Stephen Short was the first Justice of Peace and Rev. William Crow, the first preacher. In 1831, Stephen Lee built a cabin in Panter Grove, Alfred Dutch soon moved into the precinct. Mr. Dutch built the first frame house ever erected in the precinct, in 1834.

Peter Cartwright, the famous pioneer preacher, was a devoted friend to the early settlers in this section of the country. As early as 1823 he preached in the cabin of Mr. Crow, to the following families; Samuel Short, William Cooper, Stephen Short, John Cox, Samuel Robinson, R. Headspeth, William Miller, and James Watson.

The Centenary M.E. Church, in the northern part of the precinct (the Centenary Cemetery is located in Philadelphia Township), took its name from the Centennial year of Methodism in America. The church society was first organized at the residence of Samuel Sinclair, in 1853, with the following families; Joseph Bowers, John Cheatham, John Gill, and Jonathan Gill. Rev. James Farner was among the first ministers of that neighborhood, and held occasional services at the residence of Mr. Sinclair, till the fall of 1857, when the school house was built, where he, in connection with Lewis Mathews, M. Monroe, and Revs. Ayers and Hewitt continued preaching for three years or more. The circuit was then organized and Rev. J. Mitchell was appointed the regular pastor. The society built a beautiful frame church in 1866. Rev. William Stribling, from Jacksonville, a retired minister, gave 5 acres of land for the building and support of the church. The building committee was made up of the two Samuel Sinclairs and John Beggs. The first trustees of the church were; John Beggs, Samuel Sinclair, Joseph Bowers and Levi M. Ream.

The first school house built in the precinct was in 1855, known as the Begg's school house. School houses were conveniently located all over the precinct, no scholar being compelled to walk to school more than a mile or mile and a half, at most.

HISTORY OF THE VILLAGE OF ASHLAND

In July and August, 1857, after the Tonica and Petersburg Railroad was surveyed, the town of Ashland was platted for J. Elmore Crow, Wm. G. Spears, James A. Beggs, John Mather, James H. Lurton, B. Newman, George Rutledge, Wm. S. Prentice and Newton Cloud. It was named after the home of Henry Clay in Kentucky.

The land upon which the town is located was owned by Elmore Crow who had 600 acres, of which nearly one half was laid out into town lots. Mr. Crow was a farmer and a thriving corn crop was growing on the ground when the lots were staked off. He had a house within the present limits of the town where he lived. It was later known as the Douglas boarding house. A little village, consisting of perhaps a dozen houses and known by the name of Rushaway, was moved to Ashland and became a part of the town. W.R. Hunter was among the first merchants of the village. He built a store on Main Street and began a general grocery and dry goods trade, and continued in business 4 years, when he entered into partnership with J.M. Jones. They continued business under the firm name of Hunter and Jones until 1872, when Mr. Hunter sold out his interest. Mr. Hunter entered exclusively into the grain trade.

William Goble and Alexander Mansfield built a store and began business about the time Mr. Hunter opened his store. They continued business about two years, when they became financially embrassed, and was sold under the Sheriff's hammer.

The first Post Office was kept in the Hunter and Jones store, and W.R. Hunter was the regularly appointed postmaster. He was later succeeded by W.W. Redman. Previous to opening the post office, the settlers procured their mail at Lancaster, some three and a half mile distance.

The first hotel of the village was a brick building and was owned by J.L. Clark. The building was first built by a company consisting of the following persons; Elmore Crow, James L. Beggs and William Spears.

The first blacksmith shop was put up by Leander Grandy. Another about the same time was started by Andrew Henderson, which was shortly after bought out by John L. Douglas, after about one year he sold out to Messrs. Crow and Beggs.

About the same time the blacksmith business began, a wagon shop was opened by William Bready. After three years it was run by Charles Goodman.

In 1872 the elevator was built by Messrs. Hunter and Duey & Company. Mr. Hunter bought out the interest of his partners and conducted the business himself. Mr. Hunter was one of the prominent grain dealers of the village, and handled over 100,000 bushels of grain annually. The other grain firms doing business was E. Beggs, and Hamilton & Duey.

January 18, 1868, a meeting of the prominent citizens took place for the purpose of arranging an election for the purpose of incorporating the village. The following persons were elected as members and officers of the village board; Stephen Barnes, President; W.R. Hunter, Clerk; J.G. Smith, Police Magistrate; James L. Beggs and A.L. Corson. The members of the village board in 1882 were; David Middour, President; Myer Hexter, Treasurer; Samuel Short, Police Magistrate; William Duke, Street Commissioner; John Fansher, Farnk Lohman, T.A. Duey, Eli M. Wyatt, John King and J.G. Pearn, Clerks.

Previous to the building of the O. & M. R.R., in 1871, the growth of the town was not rapid, but on the completion of the

INTRODUCTION

The cemetery book would have been to large and costly to combine all cemeteries into one book. The society has decided to publish per townships as they are completed.

Ashland City and Catholic cemeteries were completely read in 1989, all stones through 1988 have been published. Individuals with no birth or death dates, but has a burial year, have been taken from the Ashland City and Catholic Cemetery Board records; also, when using these records I included the burials they had listed in 1989-1991. The full name listed in this publication may not be on the stone but what was given in the cemetery records.

Some stones are incomplete as far as the death dates, they have either been pre-set or one spouse has already passed away, giving those of you researching your family members an idea where they will be.

I would like to thank the members who help in assisting me in reading the stones and publishing this book:

Keith Strubbe
Janice Fox
Janet Martin

and also to you for the patience you had waiting for this to be published.

Watch for the other volumes in the future.

ASHLAND TOWNSHIP CEMETERIES:

St. Augustine Catholic	1-12
Ashland City	13-63
Cooper	64
Crow/Elmore	65-68
Flinn	69-75
Willson	76

ST. AUGUSTINE CATHOLIC NW 1/4 of NW 1/4 of Sec 32, T17N R8W 3PM

This is an active cemetery and has been completely read through 1988. Any burial list in 1989-1992 was taken from the Cemetery Record not necessarily from the stone. The cemetery is 3/10 of a mile from the City Cemetery on Cemetery Road.

The scouts found one short stone in a concrete base but was not legible.

I want to sincerely thank the Boy Scout Troop 312, Springfield, IL for the work they endured clearing, resetting, and reading stones for Chad Strubbe's service project for Eagle Scout. He was helped by 11 fellow Boy Scouts, Scoutmaster and 2 Asst. Scoutmasters on March 8, May 16, May 31 and June 3, 1992. Good job done, thanks again.

FLINN CEMETERY

WILLSON SE1/4 of NE1/4 of Sec 4, T17N R8W 3PM

This cemetery is just across the road in Menard County from the above location in Cass County and without doubt some Cass County residents were buried here. The following stones were listed in the Old Cemeteries of Cass County by Arthur Crumrin. When I listed the cemetery in 1989 there were cattled roaming around and the stones were laying around broken into pieces, I did not even try to check them out.

Linn, Joseph - son of James & Nancy Linn, born in Jefferson Co., PA. Apr 1, 1836 - Aug 31, 1862.
McQuilken, Archibald - died Sep 17, 1877, age 60 years
Willson, George - son of J.R. & M.A. Willson, died Apr 29, 1850, age 1y-4m-5d
Willson, George M. - son of H.C. & S.A. Willson, died Sep 7, 1866, age 10m-10d
Willson, Infant - child of R.F. & M.S. Willson, died Nov 15, 1887, age 3 days
Willson, James F. - son of R.F. & M.S. Willson, died Jul 17, 1887, age 10m-26d
Willson, James H. - son of M.H. & C. Willson, died Oct 15, 1858, age 1y-1m-11d
Willson, John M. - son of M.H. & C. Willson, died Aug 29, 1856, age 13 months
Willson, Robert I. - son of M.H. & C. Willson, died Oct 23, 1860, age ?
